Dedication

When classes resumed last October there were many vacant seats; that fellow who had been your lab partner or that familiar face you'd seen so often in the Union was missing. These had been called to duty in the Armed Forces of their country. Many interrupted their education for the second time in a brief five years.

It is to all these boys that the 1951 CHERRY TREE is respectfully dedicated.

Introduction

The set is ready. The assistant has placed the cameras in the positions indicated by the director the night before, and the cinematographer has completed the illumination for the first scene, a pan shot on campus at a large city university. The director is satisfied and calls, "We'll take it. Ready! Everybody quiet!" The signal bell has sounded. The boom man calls, "Up to speed!" The director calls, "Camera!"

The scene is on. The camera slowly swings in a wide arc, registering a melange of wide-windowed buildings, greenery and the milling people. But you are the camera. On the surface you see it only as hurried, unorganized movement, but that guy's got a coffee date at the Union, and she's on her way to History 40A, and they're making a dash for D 301 before the 10:10 bell. And so on, through the day, through the year, the constant shift and change of things happening . . . an hour here and an hour there . . . some dull and some interesting . . . like the swift progression of a moving picture from scene to scene, and before you realize it the movie's over . . . the year's over . . . and the house is ready for the next audience.

"Cut!" The take is finished. Scene and dialogue are all recorded. And now for the first rushes . . .

A UNIVERSITY IN THE NATION'S CAPITAL

"... A UNIVERSITY in a central part of the United States to which the youth of fortune and talents from all parts thereof might be sent for the completion of their Education in all the branches of polite literature; in arts and Sciences, in acquiring knowledge in the principles of Politics and good Government ..."

This section from Washington's will had long been a cherished ideal of the first president. As early as March, 1795, he wrote Thomas Jefferson, "My mind has always been more disposed to apply the shares in the inland navigations of Potomac and James River ... towards the endowment of a University." Washington had, indeed, the preceding month invested fifty of his Potomac Company shares to further the plan for a liberal "and compleat system of education."

He had given careful consideration to the proper location for such an institution and had decided upon the District of Columbia "on account of its being the permanent seat of the government of this Union" and secondly "because of its Centrality" and finally because it afforded the "opportunity of attending debates in Congress" and otherwise viewing first hand the workings of the government.

While Washington pursued this idea extensively in letters and speeches during his lifetime, Congress, following his death, made no efforts to carry out the provisions of his will and the bequeathed stock became worthless. But others took up the crusade for a central University and traveled the East coast raising funds. The Rev. Luther Rice was the leader of this movement and planned for a theological institution. James Monroe was a ready contributor as were members of his Cabinet, and Congressmen.

The Missouri Compromise was on the floor of Congress. Earnest debate had harried Senators for weeks. Now it was suddenly interrupted for the introduction of a minor, unimportant bill for the incorporation of "the Columbian Society for literary purposes." Thus the petition had been renamed after the theological seminary proposal was rejected.

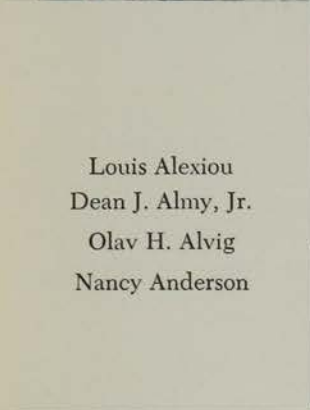

1821 — the bill was quickly passed and Washington's dream of a University was at last beginning to unfold, but there were many growing pains ahead.

Forty-six and one-half acres between 14th and 15th Streets north of what is now Florida Avenue was the home of the yet nameless University for nearly sixty years. College Hill, as the site was called, witnessed the installation of the first faculty in January, 1822. Thirty-nine students matriculated.

The University has always had the support and cooperation of United States Presidents. Monroe was its loyal friend; John Quincy Adams donated over $7,000; Andrew Jackson aided in issuing a Federal grant in 1832; Abraham Lincoln made use of the college buildings as a government hospital during the Civil War; Ulysses S. Grant served on the Board of Trustees while Robert E. Lee was an honorary member of the college literary society. So the list stretches up through the thirty-three government heads with virtually each chief executive in some way connected with the University. In our own day, President Harry White Sidewalls.

S. Truman, as thousands of other fathers have done, sent his daughter over to the school at 21st and G.

During the years of expansion, a separate Law and Medical school were opened and in 1873 the institution was ready to graduate from the title of Columbian College to Columbian University. With this change, Columbian University, appropriately enough, moved away from College Hill to the center of the city, 15th and H Streets, Northwest.

Another innovation — women students were admitted to the University. They were careful to obey the many rules prescribed for them, and decorously took their seats at least one desk apart from their masculine colleagues. They formed a society known as the "Original Thirteen," determining to excel in conduct and scholastic achievement, for their record would decide the future admittance of women. Apparently the Original Thirteen succeeded, for forty per cent of the students today are women.

It was not until 1904 that Columbian University became The George Washington University. Eight years later — moving day again. This time to its present location. This was the section Washington had originally visualized as the school's site. This G Street area was first the colonial town of Hamburg. General Braddock had landed here during the French and Indian War. Later it became an exclusive Capital residential section. Remnants of homes of that era are still standing, in particular, the Woodhull House. For a number of years this was the home of General Woodhull, who took a personal interest in University progress. General Grant had an office across the street and Henry Adams, the historian, lived at 20th and G.

Hamburg Town was to see many changes in its layout. In 1924 and 1925 two new Georgian-American buildings were erected — Stockton and Corcoran Hall. Several of the original residences were converted into University buildings while many of the outmoded structures were razed and replaced by modern classrooms. In rapid succession followed a women's residence hall; Lisner Auditorium, Washington's finest and best equipped theater; Lisner Library, of more than 170,000 volumes; the Hall of Government; the 400-bed hospital, which boasts the newest and most extensive medical services; and the recently completed Student Union. Still the University grows with the construction of James Monroe Hall underway.

Nine, ten, eleven — eleven presidents have guided the University since that first installation, when Dr. William Staughton took over. One hundred and six years later a Westerner came from his positions at the Universities of California and Arizona to become G.W.'s twelfth president. President Cloyd Heck Marvin held that liberal arts are rightly the base of all education and immediately set in force a plan to provide a cultural background for students in all colleges of the University. A number of national scholarship societies were chartered at George Washington, including Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi. Entrance requirements were raised, the number of faculty members enlarged and scholastic requirements for both students and faculty increased.

Adapting to the World War II emergency, classes were set up for military personnel and research in nuclear physics was sponsored. The famous Bazooka was developed at a University field laboratory. With V-J day, veterans streamed back into college. G.W. provided for admission of every eligible veteran and conducted classes from 7 A.M. to 11 P.M. This year arrangements have been made to readmit students in the status they held when called into the armed forces.

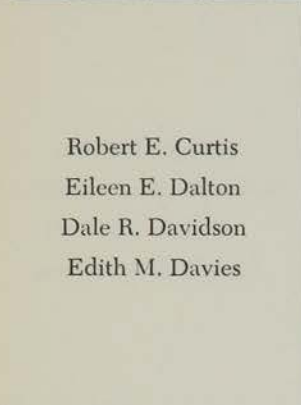

Extension courses have long been an important feature of the curriculum. Recently they have gained new prominence by the formation of a separate division of adult education. Federal workers, executive appointees, diplomats and Civil Service employees regularly pack night classes. Washington would indeed be proud to know that George Washington University had supplied the Federal Government with more men and women than any other institution.

Assuredly then The George Washington University has risen and expanded to fulfill and, in truth, to exceed Washington's sincerest aspirations for "a liberal and compleat system of education" — a University in the Nation's Capital.

ODE

*And what did you do, my lad,
What travails and labors had,
Irregular verbs,
T. S. and Ezra?
Tell me, is Milton yet favored,
And Tennyson still reign lord?*

*How fare the Newtonians
And the molecular custodians?
How goes Plato,
Aeschylus, too?
Of your college please relate,
Your year's career expiate.*

*An infinite line is defined
With registration queue in mind;
Cashier and cash,
Books and babble;
Orientation left no delusion
Of our organized confusion.*

*In my memory sticks
Glorious score — seven to six.
Others, too, succumbed,
Then came the Terps.
Parade and party and ball—

*Have you mentioned my son
Any calculus or statistics done?
Pere pedant
How archaic.
Three tux in the closet, alas,
Pledge Formals a fellow harass.*

*With banner in hand I patrol
Forsooth our candidate to extol.
Politiking
Forgotten, we
Lighted a tree, hung mistletoe,
Heard the Messiah and hoped for snow.*

*Blithely we spread good cheer
While Finals gripped us with fear.
Library portals?
Midnight oil?
O, father, you misunderstand
'Tis Goat Show and concert by Band.*

*With the Players we chuckled and cried,
And spring proms our endurance most tried.
Stuffy stadiums
Cheers rechoed:
"On Big Blue Team" — but once more,
Then with malt we'll herald the score.*

*At May Day another crowning,
Thence to O. C. for chill browning.
Now tarry
There my boy,
But one question — no offense,
Weren't you to graduate — i.e. commence?*

WHY

They asked me why.

Why waste time on such archaic pursuits as literature and arts? Culture, fine arts were all right for the ancients. Homer had lots of time to fool with the stuff. Socrates didn't have to keep up payment on the family car. There weren't any 1040 forms to bother Plato or Aristotle. This is a practical age, the scientific era. Competition is tough. A fellow's got to specialize. Know your job and stick to it. And there aren't many jobs in poetics and Old Norse.

It's an old question. An argument that liberal arts students have now found themselves embroiled in for years. This dissension between classic and practical education first became formidable a century ago when Darwin exploded his revolutionary scientific theories. The old pedagogical methods were abandoned in a rash of empirical curricula. Emphasis was exclusively on apprehension of natural laws and forces.

Then flaws became apparent in this system. It somehow began to seem a trifle one-sided. Some very vital part of man's education was being neglected. Thinkers came to realize the truth of Newman's earlier cry for the cultivated gentleman; for knowledge as its own end, to render an intelligent being more intelligent.

Matthew Arnold existed in a practical Philistine world, a very confused world. His answer was a liberal education. Whether this was the solution is yet being debated. Arnold, however, concisely defined the aims and values of liberal education. It is to enable man to see the whole and see it steadily; and by knowing the best that has been thought and said in the world to produce a well-rounded individual.

These are the concepts on which a liberal arts university bases its precepts today. While realizing it is essential to be skilled in a single trade or profession, it feels that basically man is a reasoning, thinking creature and these powers must be trained, expanded in order that he may function more perfectly in his world; in order that he may propagate a fine continuing world.

They asked me why — but what could I answer.

EXCHANGE

Well, of all the ways to spend a perfectly good Sunday afternoon, when I could be, be — well, studying. And to miss Sammy Kaye, too.

If it were anyone, just anyone, but those . . . . . Yes, and that house is like a mortuary . . . . . Of course she'd say they were best on campus, she's pinned to the vice president.

Is that the buzzer? They're here already. Well, don't hog the mirror.

Why, yes, I'd love to ride over with you. Aren't some of the other girls going with us? . . . Oh, well, no there isn't much room on a motorcycle.

One of the pledges, you say. Oh, yes, right ahead of us. It is a Cadillac convertible, isn't it? . . . Don't be silly; this is much more fun.

You thought we'd never get here, Ann. . . . We finally got old mechanized Dobbin. . . . Oh, thank you. Sign here?

For me? . . . Well, no, technically Daisy isn't our flower, but it's very close and so thoughtful of you all.

The 75 cent tour. Ha, ha. I'm dying to see the house. I really do think you have the nicest of any on campus. It's, it's laid out more like a fraternity house should be. . . . No, I don't care for their's either — so cluttered.

My, how many actives do you have? I've always heard you were the best on campus, but I didn't realize you were the biggest, too. . . . Oh, only — well, we always go out for quality, too.

I've been dying to sample the punch. Hmm, it is different. I think it's just wonderful you do all your own cooking. . . . No, thanks, I'll get one of the cookies later.

How-do-you-do. What? . . . The 75-cent tour, ha. . . . Well, look at all those trophies, gracious. . . . But it's so nice to know you have such terrific alums and really the cups they give now aren't nearly as elaborate.

I'd love to dance. You don't mind holding this cup?

Polka — no it sort of sounds like a Tango, but they're so similar, it is hard to differentiate. Maybe if we wait a minute.

That is a tricky step you have. . . . Made it up yourself — clever. You must teach it to me — sometime. Oh, off beat, how original.

There's A Hot time in the Old House Tonight!

"Well now, ain't we the cat's pajamas!" Sundry flappers at the Sigma Nu's Roaring Twenties Party.

Hot-plate special.

Dear, I'm just perishing for some of that — or you don't possibly have a drop of water. How sweet — I'll wait.

Hello. Just deserted for the moment. Flatterer. The 75-cent tour, eh — here comes my water. . . . I bet you did.

The scrapbook? My, listen, someone's playing. Let's go see.

May I have an edge on this couch? . . . He is a genius, plays by ear?

Well, now, really. Now, really.

Ann, we aren't the last ones to leave, are we? With that tall blond and he's in law school. You have to be absolutely brilliant even to get through the doors of Stockton. We're going down to the Palladium Room, imagine.

Isn't he a doll? I hope he looks up my name in the guest book. . . . Yes, of course, I wrote it big.

I know — never have I had such a terrific time. Listen, do you suppose there's any chance of getting another exchange with them soon?

PANORAMA

The day begins early. Two paradoxical alarms awaken the University. One is the dawn-splitting echo of the pressure drill and crane of the construction crew. The other is the regular accent of a horse and wagon.

It is not long after that the battalions of students, dodging express buses, file in, rank after rank.

Sleepy eyes are half opened by black coffee as nine o'clock signals a mass exodus to waiting lecture rooms. Hoarse professors continue futile competition with rush hour traffic on one side and bulldozer, crane, and dredge on the other.

10 o'clock, 11 o'clock — the figures stream from the classrooms; march mechanically down the narrow sidewalks; into the classrooms; out of the classrooms.

Noon — reprieve. Sandwiches are hastily choked down, coffee, no cream. The monster has been fed and once again begins to grind out its endless supply of knowledge.

The day wears on, shadows lengthen. Many of the old faces fade, new ones take their place. Traffic thickens. Overloaded buses gas and sigh. Night classes. The little mechanical stream once again flows.

It is dark. Points of light from the Library, Corcoran, Stockton punctuate the quadrangle. For the University they are as stars.

Eventually even these are snuffed out. A tired horse makes his return trip. The University is silent.

To the detached observer this precise panorama of the University is sufficient. But how much more comprehensive must the description be to he who calls this "Alma Mater."

One little, two little, . . . twenty-one more! Other lovely candidates for Homecoming Queen.

"Student Activities Book? . . . My own????"

For college is football games, the intoxicating air of band music and cheers, those wonderful hot dogs that can never be surpassed, your precarious bleacher seat. It's all-night bull sessions and the inevitable dash for that 8 A.M. class, that seems to get earlier every day. It's the fascinating boy in Psych who has a yellow convertible with white sidewalls.

It is the day you realized with a jolt that high school was really over — your first orchid, your last "A"; the pale of the Library of Congress and your Frosh term paper; and your first interview with that unknown quantity — your advisor. You added new words to your vocabulary — Quality Point Index and Probation.

It is trying to out-yell a packed pep rally, and sitting reverently with that same crowd at the Christmas MESSIAH; the solemnity of convocation; and lustily singing "Hail to the Buff" but sneaking a look at the HANDBOOK when they play "Alma Mater."

George Washington is the Old Sycamore — most photogenic tree on campus; and that kindly gentleman looking down from the library wall to remind you that

"And furthermore I'm sure that you both would enjoy our course in Geomorphology."

Marie Gottscho, Queen Lynn Mitchell, Betty Talley, and Gloria Binzel . . . May Day royalty.

In Philadelphia nearly everyone reads the BULLETIN.

you, too, possess a heritage. It's the thrill of the day those Chem assignments ceased to be tedious and you had discovered a Major; untold hours and gallons of coffee consumed in the Union; and the mysterious way reading assignments were always due "last week."

The University is the velvet tones of the Student Union loudspeaker; finding yourself on the stage at the Awards Assembly; exasperation at the inability of  $H_2O$  to combine with  $CuS$ , and Plato's insistence of a Universal Mind.

And, of course, it's the fragrance of carnations enveloping that lovely girl you took to the fraternity formal; good nights on Strong Hall steps; one more dance at Homecoming; the beer you left on the bar and the many you didn't; and a blind date with your roommate's cousin, who was afraid of girls. It is explaining to your Southern cousin why we don't play them any more and not having to explain anything to your Georgetown neighbor; the supposed Ocean City rest; a pressed rose; wearing a formal to late Friday night classes and blue jeans to Saturday seminars; and those afternoons that somehow lengthened into evening, into nights, solving the world's problems at Brownley's.

This, then, is George Washington. These are the things we can never forget. It is because of them and a million more that we fill with pride when identifying it as our school: for these and for no reason, but that it is — our school.

Its aims are the promotion of professional and social activities among the law students, the furtherance of scholastic attainments, the development of the spirit of brotherhood and cooperation among the members, and the enhancing of the reputation of the Law School at The George Washington University.

Officers of the Student Bar Association are elected near the beginning of the winter term each year. They carry out their functions through committees, members of which are appointed by the President.

The principal committees and their functions are the Case Club, handling appellate case argument and procedure; the Placement Committee, running a student and alumni legal employment service; the Legal Aid Committee, which does voluntary legal work with the D.C. Legal Aid Offices; and the Speakers Committee, which arranges for speakers on topics of legal interest.

The Case Club is organized to afford law students a realistic exercise in the art of taking the theory out of law lectures and putting it into practice under actual courtroom conditions. Hypothetical cases are assigned to the members who as counsel prepare written briefs and later present their arguments orally. The procedure is appellate in nature and cases are heard before a three-judge court, composed of a law professor, a practicing attorney, and a member of the Board of Student Editors of the LAW REVIEW.

Participation is competitive and ratings are based both on the court's decision as to the law and as to the performance of counsel. Each year the two highest rated members from each semester's competition present arguments in a final case before a court composed of prominent members of the bench.

Interest in this practical and academically beneficial organization has increased progressively, and it has been accorded a place of paramount importance among the law student body.

The chapter held two fall smokers at the home of Professor H. G. Turner, Presiding Judge of the U. S. Tax Court, spoke at the first smoker, and Mr. Phil Nichols, Jr., Assistant General Counsel of the Treasury Department, was speaker at the second smoker.

In November, a pledging ceremony was held jointly with Taft chapter of Georgetown University, at which sixteen prospective initiates were pledged. Formal initiation was held on December 2nd at the Raleigh Hotel. An impressive occasion, the initiation was followed by a banquet with addresses by prominent legal people. During the interim, the chapter holds a monthly business meeting, where the usual chapter business is transacted.

The chapter has thirty active members and six members on the LAW REVIEW staff, two of whom hold positions as Student Editors.

Commencing with their host-playing role at the National Convention, September, 1950, this George Washington chapter held a series of functions emphasizing the non-academic, as well as the academic, aspects of the legal profession which included a Get Together Smoker for the benefit of all first and second year law students with Dean O. S. Colclough as guest speaker; an Open House for all George Washington students to afford them an opportunity to hear guest speaker Joseph F. Donahue, special prosecutor for U. S. in the case of Harry Bridges; and an initiation dinner at the Lafayette Hotel at which the honorable Judge David L. Bazelon of U. S. Court of Appeals was presented with a certificate of membership and Edward Stafford, D.C. Bar Examiner, made the address.

Woodrow Wilson Senate relaxes at its traditional Lohnes Picnic.

Organized in 1913 through the merger of three law fraternities, Delta Theta Phi Law Fraternity has grown to be the largest law fraternity in the country, both in active membership and in number of senates, having 81 student senates with a membership exceeding 30,000, including alumni.

The most active chapter, also having the largest membership, is Woodrow Wilson Senate of George Washington University. During the year a number and variety of activities are planned. Outstanding fraternal and educational events are the professional meetings at which prominent figures speak on the latest developments in their respective fields of law. In the social field the annual highlights include the "Lohnes" picnic, the spring and fall inter-senate dances, and the Founders Day Banquet, whose principal speaker is a nationally-known Delta Theta Phi.

A Barristers' Inn

The Phi Delta Phi International Legal Fraternity was founded at the University of Michigan Law School in December, 1869. It is reputed to be the oldest professional fraternity in America. Its purposes, as set forth in the preamble to its constitution, are the promotion of high standards of professional ethics and culture in the law schools and the profession at large and the fostering of fraternal spirit among the members of the profession.

The fraternity now has sixty-four active student chapters, called Inns, and forty-nine active alumni groups, called Barrister Inns, throughout the United States and Canada. The total membership roll of the fraternity numbers over 37,000 brothers.

Phi Delta Phi is proud of the number of its members who have achieved renown in the legal profession and in the public service. Among these members are Theodore Roosevelt, William Howard Taft, Charles Evans Hughes, Harlan Fiske Stone, Benjamin N. Cardozo, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, and Earl Warren.

MORTAR BOARD

Scholastic Flat Tops

President .....	Edith Venezky
Vice President .....	Lee Harrison
Secretary .....	Ann Noyes
Treasurer .....	Diane Farrell

Again this year the 1950-51 Hour Glass Chapter of Mortar Board has continued its three-fold purpose of fostering leadership, scholarship and service among University women. Projects for the year included: "How to get a Good Start at G.W.," a panel discussion for new women students; an information booth along with ODK during registration; and tapping new members of Tassels, a Sophomore women's group sponsored by Mortar Board to encourage leadership, scholarship and service among Sophomore women.

On December 15 at Woodhull House Mortar Board held its annual Smarty Party to honor Junior women with a 3.0 average or better, complete with a Christmas Tree, carols and Dr. Tupper as Santa Claus. The following day, Saturday, December 16, Mortar Board entertained Tassels at a Christmas party.

In February they again manned an information booth and soon after the semester began, started interviewing for offices of Big Sisters. As the semester drew to a close Mortar Board selected new members who were tapped at the May Day Ceremonies.

Mortar Board worked with the Student Council, Placement Office and other organizations in sponsoring the All-University Career Conference in April.

First Row: E. Venezky, Miss Tate, A. Noyes. Second Row: D. Farrell, R. Dunlap, L. Harrison, J. Wildman.

President.....Eugenia Brandenburger
Secretary.....Faye Zigmond
Treasurer.....Viola Andolfatto
Membership Chairman.....Frances Chaconas

Under the parental security of Mortar Board, Tassels functions to encourage high scholarship, leadership and character. Tapping for Tassels is in essence a reward for scholarship and leadership excellence in the Freshmen year. The pledge must, however, continue this excellence in her Sophomore year in order to qualify for initiation.

In addition to maintaining her scholastic average and participation in at least two campus activities, the Tassels pledge puts in at least two hours a week on the annual project and passes a test on Tassels' precepts.

The project for this year was the maintenance of records at the George Washington University Hospital. Undertaking this responsible job, the girls sorted and filed patients' records and were highly commended by hospital authorities for their accuracy and enthusiasm for the work.

A Christmas party with members of last year's Tassels group and the current Mortar Board chapter highlighted the holiday season.

Secretary.....Don Bostwick

There are many facets to a fraternity man's life. He is expected from Pledge days to become familiar with the structure and principles of the organization and to follow and champion these ideals. Less altruistically he puts in hours upon hours cleaning up the house, memorizing foreign chapter names, dashing to answer the house phone and a million other tasks.

A fraternity man's life is no longer his own from the day he accepts that coveted bid. He is a member, a link in the chain. As such he must function in harmony with the others, must help brother Brown through Chem. 11, lend the Pledge Master his best (and only) tux, and share his cramped room with the visiting Grand National Secretary.

Though every fraternity member gladly accepts these obligations, some members are notably outstanding in fulfillment of their duties. These brothers are elected to the Gate and Key, the honorary society which strives to promote the interests of the national fraternity system.

Students toil from fall to spring but a sorority girl's work is scarce ever done. A Greek's toils begin in her pledge period. In addition to participating in two university activities and achieving a scholastic average, she must memorize the volumes of material contained in the pledge manual, attend sorority functions, do chores about the rooms and produce a full staged skit. Once initiated, however, this pledge program seems like a pleasant interlude compared to the responsibilities which swamp the active. While all members willingly carry such a schedule, a number participate outstandingly. Delphi recognizes these sorority women for their contributions to their respective organizations.

This year Delphi has sponsored two pledge workshops, one in November and the second in January. The former covered scholarship and activities with Dean Koenig and Edith Harper speaking. The second workshop covered "What it takes to be a Sorority Member."

SIGMA TAU

Between the Calipers

President.....Chester Bilinski
Vice President.....Arthur Bailey, Jr.
Treasurer.....Edward McGandy
Secretary.....Kenneth Bonwit

Construction of a model building comprises the most ambitious of Sigma Tau's plans for the future. The immense help of visual aids in instruction has been demonstrated wherever they have been used. Such models could show the function of the moving parts in a piece of machinery or they could demonstrate the stresses induced in a structural member. Another of the plans is that of bringing about an increase in the number of engineering books on file in the University.

First Row: K. Bonwit, W. Vary, C. Bilinski, A. Bailey, E. McGandy, L. Garrison, J. Held.
Second Row: H. Bauer, D. Kintfather, O. Hokanson, B. Harwood, M. Swig, B. Niederstrasser, H. Moody, G. Podolski, W. Eicke. Third Row: J. Binckley, C. Wimbrow, A. Glorioso, R. Eilbert, J. Lewis, J. Rekas, H. Rosen, C. Hoover, J. Barrasso.

First Row: H. Norwood, Jr., E. Caldwell, R. Allnutt, D. Fletcher, J. Hampton, C. Jackson, Jr., R. Spitler. Second Row: H. Allison, L. Laubscher, J. Schofield, J. Freeman, R. Michelsen, S. All time objectives of the fraternity are the recognition of personal attainment on the part of the engineering students, the provision for a working organization for promotion of the interests of the engineering college, and the encouragement of fellowship among colleagues in training for the engineering profession.

Sigma Tau was founded February 22, 1904, at the University of Nebraska. The fraternity has attained nationwide scope and recognition and presently has 26 representative chapters in universities throughout the United States. Xi chapter was established at G.W. in 1921.

Membership is composed of men in the upper third of the Junior and Senior classes.

Traditionally at the Homecoming Ball each fall there is a moment's lull in the evening's festivities, the band is silenced and all attention is drawn expectantly toward the stage. From among the thronged couples a number of tuxedoed individuals step forward — this is the Omicron Delta Kappa fall tapping. Eligibles are recognized again at the spring tapping at the Interfraternity Sing. Those tapped have served their university outstandingly in at least two fields but more generally in many. Participation fields are religion, society, athletics, publications, music, debate, and dramatics. Prospective members must also rank in the upper third of their class.

Faculty members are also initiated into the Alpha Delta Circle, which aids in abler cooperation and understanding between the faculty and student body. By bringing together the most representative men in all phases of collegiate life ODK creates an organization which helps to mold university opinions on questions of local and intercollegiate interest. By recognizing men prominent in activity achievements it is felt that others will strive for attainment in similar lines.

PI DELTA EPSILON

Pi Delta Epsilon, national honorary fraternity for outstanding collegiate journalists, celebrates this year its 28th year of activity on the G.W. campus. In the spring Pi Delta Epsilon is sponsoring a journalism conference for high school students and is giving a party for members of all campus publications. Beginning this year, the fraternity presents an award to the school's outstanding journalist, who will receive a Medal of Merit and have his name inscribed on a plaque to hang in the Student Union.

Having thoroughly familiarized himself with Association and Dissociation theories, Retention and Memory curves, Sigmas and Medians, Manics and Depressives, the psych student with a 3.5 average is eligible for membership in the national psychology honorary, Psi Chi. Initiation was held at Ruby Foo's this year. Throughout the year, notable leaders in the many fields of psychology addressed the organization, which aids various psychological projects by financial and personnel aids. The group annually sponsors a campus square dance.

A national fraternity for graduate women, Phi Delta Gamma is the only Greek letter organization whose membership is open to women of all professions who are studying in the graduate schools or advanced professional schools. Its purpose is two-fold: to promote the highest ideals among women of the graduate school, and to advance the social welfare and activities of women in the graduate school. Membership in Phi Delta Gamma affords the individual opportunity to become acquainted with women pursuing many different fields of graduate work. The requirements for membership are: good character, high scholarship, leadership and cooperative spirit as well as personality.

Annual activities included an open house for graduate women in November, the Founders' Day Dinner in December, a progressive rush party in February, and addresses by Mrs. Myrtle Murdock and the Honorable Chase Going Woodhouse. The theme for 1950-'51 was "New Horizons for Women." Patronesses are Mrs. Joshua Evans and Mrs. Cloyd Heck Marvin.

Pi Lambda Theta is the national education honorary for women at The George Washington University. It has many varied programs during the school year, all based in one way or another, upon these purposes:

To foster professional spirit and to seek and maintain the highest standards of scholarship and professional preparation, especially among women.

To work actively to further the cause of democratic education.

To cooperate in the solution of problems which interpenetrate various fields of knowledge.

To encourage intercultural understandings.

To strive for a clear understanding of local, state, national, and international problems and to stimulate active participation in their solution.

To develop professional fellowship among women engaged in education.

To encourage graduate work and to stimulate research in accordance with these purposes.

Alpha Lambda Delta combines service with scholarship last year a tutoring service was organized and has been continued this year. In September they hold a buffet supper jointly with Phi Eta Sigma, the men's Freshmen honorary.

It's cold and damp on football fields. Cold for the players and spectators but even colder for those individuals beneath the cloaks — the Band. But if their French horns are icy to the touch and the snare drums snap back, bandsmen can console themselves with the prospect of election to Kappa Kappa Psi, the bandsmen's honorary. This group sorts music, keeps files and services instruments for the band. The G.W. chapter recently installed Beta Chi chapter at the University of Virginia.

A new service project is chosen each year, but the organization's main function is to orient prospective University students while in high school. To do this they hold forums and assemblies in the high schools and have set up a file of G.W. advisors.

Girls majoring in Home Economics who have attained a high scholastic average and who wish to advance themselves in this field make up Alpha Pi Epsilon.

The organization strives to promote interest in Home Economics at The George Washington University, to establish high scholarship standards, and to promote the social life and professional advancement of the members.

Last fall Alpha Pi Epsilon and the Home Economics Club jointly sponsored a tea for all interested students.

The activities of the Student Council this year have been both varied and numerous. Initiating a new school year always presents a challenge to the Council.

The Freshmen Orientation was an immediate success. Held away from campus this year, the Orientation Reception and Dance at the Kennedy-Warren served to launch the new class on its four-year college career. Without the necessary funds, but with the backing of the fraternities and sororities on campus, the Council undertook to publish the STUDENT HANDBOOK. Again with no financial aid from the University, the Council sponsored one of the year's outstanding social events, the Homecoming Dance. The Wednesday evening Colonial Program Series were presented under the auspices of the Council, as were the May Day festivities.

High on the agenda of activities was the proposal for an expanded Council. During the year the Council studied the membership of other student governments and worked to incorporate some of the findings into the G.W. Council.

The Career Conference held in April offered the students of the University the unique opportunity of meeting and talking with the outstanding men and women in major fields of endeavor. So popular was this Conference that the Council felt such a gathering might become an annual event. In presenting such a Conference, The George Washington University became the leader among other colleges and universities in the country.

Council sponsored activities were well received, and awakened in the students the realization that there is a wealth of opportunities available to them.

The Interfraternity Council, composed of one delegate from each fraternity on campus, has endeavored throughout the year to promote a well balanced program which could best fulfill its aim of maintaining a high standard of interfraternity relations.

The IFC rush program, including an improved IFC Smoker, led the list of activities for the year on the Council's crowded agenda. As the school year progressed, the IFC's social program was highlighted by their Show, the fourth annual Greek Week, the Sing and Prom. Also included as essential components of the Council's overall program were the organized athletic and debating events which took place throughout the year.

In addition to the work of coordinating the various interfraternity activities, the Council cooperated in giving the annual Christmas party for orphans and participated in the National IFC Conference in New York as well as numerous other activities which filled the school year 1950-'51.

The Panhellenic Council of The George Washington University is an administrative body composed of one delegate and the president, acting in an advisory capacity, from each sorority on campus. The work of the Council aims toward cooperation among the Greek letter organizations and endeavors to promote spirit for all intersorority functions. Such functions include rushing, organizing a Junior Panhellenic Council for Pledges, the Panhel Sing and the Prom. An additional feature this year was a faculty tea sponsored by the Council which proved to be extremely successful.

THE RELIGIOUS COUNCIL

There Shall be a Brotherhood

President.....Ramona Samples
Vice President.....Malcolm Clark
Secretary.....Patricia Carlisle

A coordinating body organized to encourage and maintain religious activities, the Religious Council works through various denominational clubs on campus. The clubs now active in the University are Baptist Student Union, Canterbury Club (Episcopal), Christian Science Organization, Newman Club (Roman Catholic), Religious Philosophy Club, Wesley Foundation (Methodist), and Westminster Foundation (Presbyterian).

The objectives of the Religious Council as stated in its constitution are:

To encourage religious understanding through the practice of brotherly love and social fellowship.

To create interest in and student response to the weekly chapel services sponsored by the University.

To encourage the expression of religious faith through religious organizations represented on the campus.

To sponsor such lectures, discussions, forums or other religious programs as will be of spiritual benefit to the University.

STUDENT LIFE COMMITTEE

That activities run so smoothly and integrate well is not pure chance; it is the result of careful planning and direction by the Student Life Committee. This combined faculty-student board serves as the judiciary element in the organization of student activities. New organizations wishing to operate on campus must submit a constitution and program outline to the committee for approval. Long established organizations are checked to assure that they are maintaining the principles of their constitutions.

ENGINEERS COUNCIL

Such functions as the Engineers Ball, Banquet, Mixers and other cooperative affairs are carried on by this vital organization. Among this year's plans are a better MECHELECIV, as well as a new system for a less painful registration for all Engineering students. Participating members include two representatives each from Sigma Tau, Theta Tau, the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, the American Society of Civil Engineers, the Institute of Radio Engineers, and the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

Athletic Overseers

President .....	Diane Farrell
Vice President .....	Ann Nolte
Secretary .....	Anne Waldstein
Secretary .....	Penny Seleen
Treasurer .....	Mary Strain

The purposes of the WRA are to create and to sponsor an active interest in recreational participation at the University, to provide a varied program of recreational activities by which the desires and interests of the largest number of women students may be realized, to make the campus aware of the best standards of recreation, and to promote recreational leadership.

This year the WRA had a very full schedule. They started off with a "Get-Together" Tea for new students held on Strong Hall roof. Here the Freshmen and transfer students were introduced to the organization of WRA and the varied program it had planned for the year.

These plans included the singles tennis and golf tournaments in the fall and the women's and mixed doubles tennis and golf tournaments in the spring. Also included were the intramural tennis matches held throughout the year with other schools in this vicinity. Interscholastic games added class spirit to basketball, badminton, and many other sports. The hockey team also played many neighboring schools.

The annual A.F.C.W. Sports Day was held on November 18. All the members of A.F.C.W. sent delegates to G.W. to participate in tennis, hockey, golf and archery competitions.

The fall season was ended with the Fall Awards Tea on December 13th, in which trophies were awarded to those who displayed outstanding skill or interest in the various fall sports. The Spring Awards Tea ended the year. At this time all girls with enough points received their major and minor letters.

INTERFRATERNITY ATHLETIC COUNCIL

Ever attend a Sunday afternoon interfraternity football game? Though the crowd may be small, there is the same spirited cheering for the favorite team. Interfraternity competition doesn't, of course, cease with football. Greeks meet on the basketball court, baseball field, wrestling and boxing rings and in the swimming pool. Guiding these activities is the Interfraternity Athletic Council. The Council regulates sports and awards trophies, and is composed of one representative from each fraternity on campus.

INTERSORORITY ATHLETIC BOARD

Greeks on Guard

Getting actives (and pledges) out of sorority halls and onto the fields and courts in intersorority athletic competition is the purpose of the governing sorority athletic board. Girls may participate in a vast number of events during the year: swimming, badminton, bowling, ping-pong, volley ball, bridge, basketball and golf. A small cup is awarded the winners of each individual tourney, with a large rotating cup going to the sorority winning the most tourneys.

Junior Frat Men

INTERFRATERNITY PLEDGE COUNCIL

It's getting to be a habit — those terrific all-sorority, all-fraternity pledge parties at the Kappa Sig house. For the second year, the Interfraternity Pledge Council combined efforts with Junior Panhellenic to sponsor such an affair. For the rest of the year the Council contents itself with the official purpose, promoting friendship and cooperation among campus fraternities. One member is elected from each fraternity pledge class who joins with the Council in acquainting fellow pledges with campus life.

Pledge Days are . . .

JUNIOR PANHELLENIC COUNCIL

Just as their big sisters in Panhel serve sorority actives, Junior Panhellenic members coordinate activities of the various pledge classes. Their prime function is to organize the annual Goat Show which this year had the elusive theme of "Why?". Combining their efforts with the Interfraternity Pledge Council, Junior Panhel held an All-Fraternity Sorority Pledge Party at the Kappa Sigma house. Mrs. Ann Wacker, Assistant to Miss Kirkbride, serves as advisor.

"What's a four-count word for 'were initiated'? . . . . Who's got the dummy? . . . . You mean the lead story isn't in? . . . . Pass the Anacin."

Such is standard dialogue for harassed HATCHET staff members on weekly Sunday afternoon-night sessions. The dialogue becomes even more staccato and harried the following night when owl editors see the old day out and the new one in at the printers. Here copy is read, proofs made and galleys checked to achieve that final precise organization that University readers take for granted.

Tuesday afternoon when students are poring over the news of past week and present, far-seeing HATCHETeers are already pursuing next issue's copy. Coverage of the activities of so immense a University as George Washington is indeed a prodigious assignment, even when handled by the large body of HATCHET reporters. Week after week, however, the HATCHET comes through not only with accurate, detailed coverage of page one events, but also seemingly insignificant but so important campus intimacies.

Once again the University has allowed the interested students here at the school to have an annual. The 1951 CHERRY TREE has been developed mainly through the cooperation of the University Editorial Staff and the University Vice President, Maj. Gen. U. S. Grant, 3rd. Since the close of the war, CHERRY TREE staffs have been attempting to put the book on a self-sustaining basis. With each succeeding year the deficit of the book has been appreciably decreased.

For the past two years, the yearbook has been based on "period" themes in keeping with the name of our University. Both Don Quixote and Poor Richard's Almanac were popular and well-received, but for something modern and different this year the staff decided on the general theme of "Movies," since its active and colorful material corresponds to the wide range of individual activities at large universities such as ours.

STUDENT HANDBOOK

Editor.....Bernie Goodrich

Two seconds, one flashbulb, and one film sheet later. They wasn't expectin' this 'un!

The 1950-'51 version of the STUDENT HANDBOOK was put out through the efforts of several students at the University. Confronted with no University funds to pay for the book, it became necessary to charge twenty-five cents per copy. To insure adequate backing for the book, fraternities and sororities of the University came to the aid of the Handbook staff and pledged their financial support. Although all books were not sold, expenses were met by the Greeks and the Student Activities Office.

Members of the staff included Sheila Campbell, Mary DeMetz, Edith Harper, Anne Peterson and Charlie Yuill.

For the first time in several years, the STUDENT HANDBOOK contained a complete roster of student organizations, including names and phone numbers of organization presidents.

Perhaps the most unique book to be put out in some time, the 1950-'51 version was a pocket-size, spiral-bound booklet in Buff and Blue colors.

Included in the book were athletic schedules, information about religious activities, student activities, frats and sororities, and highlights of the school year.

Recording Progress

Undergraduates of the School of Engineering at The George Washington University have published their own news magazine for eight years. In its original form, each issue was three or four mimeographed sheets, giving the latest news of the engineering societies and fraternities, and student and faculty happenings. During its eight years on campus, it has developed into a regular magazine of about 20 pages, published six times a year and running nearly 2,000 copies per issue.

Softly the Poet

Gifted students no longer have to scrawl out their lines on table cloths or conceal their talents in Sophomore Comp. 101. Through the University anthology, the COLONIAL REVIEW, they may publish original stories, poems and essays. The REVIEW owes its existence to the interest of a number of students whose financial contributions made this publication possible. The continued publication and success of the magazine depend upon the support received from the student body. The Board sincerely hopes that students will realize its worth to novice writers, and will respond with all-out backing.

From Greenland's icy mountains to Kwajalein's damp sands, G.W.'s Junior Birdmen are found everywhere!

Conversation never lags when a Glee Clubber is around with that Hawaii-Alaska-Newfoundland gleam in his eye. This cosmopolitan air is the result of the Club's extended trips, courtesy of Military Air Transport Service, to perform for overseas troops. Surviving such horrors as smallpox of the left arm and typhoid of the right, the songsters spent Easter in Greenland, Christmas in Alaska, and enjoyed a summer tour of the Pacific bases.

Settled back in Lisner between trips, the Glee Club has given its usual full schedule of productions. The Messiah was given jointly with the Air Force orchestra and the Singing Sergeants. Easter and the annual Spring Concert sent another season out on the final chords of a successful year.

DANCE PRODUCTION GROUPS

Claudia Chapline and Lambert Joel lead off.

The purpose of the Dance Production Groups is to further dance as an art and recreation on campus. Over sixty students participate in the three modern dance groups which offer opportunity to work in technique and composition according to the student's ability.

In addition to supporting concert artists in Lisner Auditorium and giving demonstrations in local high schools, the dance groups enjoyed the hospitality of Wilson College in Chambersburg, Pennsylvania, on January 13th, for a master lesson and concert by Mark Ryder and Emily Frankel.

Members of the Dance Production Groups participated in a dance symposium conducted by Gertrude Lippincott at Hood College in Frederick, Maryland. Highlighting the year was the Modern Dance Concert in Lisner on February 23rd, in which all groups participated.

The Dance Production Groups also sponsor the popular square dances and folk dances which are held on the first and third Thursdays of each month. Joan Higginson, folk and square dance manager, assisted by hosts and hostesses, keeps everyone swinging to the music of Bob Daniel's square dance orchestra.

The Stage is Set THE UNIVERSITY PLAYERS

Street Scene

The Players have this year turned to well-known Pulitzer Prize shows to give their audiences productions with greater public appeal. Keeping in mind the basic rule of a fine laboratory for instruction in acting, makeup, and scene and costume design, they hope to attract a larger patronage with shows such as these. Through this patronage, the Players may one day become self-sufficient and aid to make Lisner Auditorium a paying proposition for our University.

Their first production was "Street Scene" by Elmer Rice. Directed by William Vorenberg, the production starred Lynn Clark and Joe Elman in a story of New York tenements, and how such an environment shapes hopes, ideas and despairs. The curtain rose next on Thornton Wilder's "The Skin of Our Teeth," a wacky comedy with the underlying proposition that man is indestructible, come war, flood, or seven-year locusts. Robert B. Stevens directed a cast headed by Davie Rogers as Sabina, the sprightly Maid and everlasting "other woman."

Next on the program was "The Time of Your Life" by William Saroyan, who describes it as a reflection on the effect of contemporary reality on the little and unknown human beings of the world, and their natural instinct to live gracefully and decently. And in the spring came Roland Pertwee's "Pink String and Sealing Wax," a delightful Victorian comedy-melodrama.

Under the direction of Leon Brusiloff, The George Washington University Band serves a dual purpose: it provides entertainment for athletic events and presents serious music at its concerts. The organization is equipped for sixty-six members, but the present membership permits the appearance of only fifty on most occasions.

During the football season of 1950, the Band appeared regularly at home games, enlivening the time-out periods alternately with the cheerleaders, and taking part in the half-time entertainment. Both the Band and the cheerleaders were able to attend the first game of the season with the University of Virginia at Charlottesville. Out in force at the remaining games played at Griffith Stadium, the band even played through the Arctic weather of the Georgetown game.

The basketball season is marked by the playing of music in a more popular vein. In the spring the Band annually presents a concert of symphonic works.

The President's Cup Regatta marked the successful first race of a plastic Dinghy made by members of the Club. The purchase of ten new boats and the arrival of many new members made an active club for the year. The Intramural Championship was won by Jim Merow; second place, Henry Emmert; and third place, Carl Evans.

During the summer each Big Sis gets in touch with about five new women students by mail or telephone and arranges to meet them and explain G.W. and show them the campus.

Before registration a tea is given for all new women at which they meet their Big Sis if they have not already done so. At this tea Mortar Board gives a program on "How to Get a Good Start at G.W." During registration each Big Sis helps her little sisters as much as possible.

During the first week of school, the Tips and Tea with Topnotchers program is held. At this time topnotchers in activities are introduced and new students given a chance to discuss activities with persons prominent in any particular field. Nosebag lunches during this first week of school further acquaint Big and little sisters.

Alpha Chi Sigma, a professional fraternity, provides all the advantages of fraternal affiliation, yet offers the benefits which accrue to a membership comprised exclusively of men who have chosen the same profession for their life work. Therefore, it provides a life-long association with men who are engaged in the same field . . . chemistry. It forms a brotherhood in chemistry, pleasant associations, valuable friendships, and professional and social contacts.

Alpha Pi of Alpha Chi Sigma annually awards a handbook of chemistry and physics to each of the three students attaining the highest averages in Freshmen chemistry, and who are concurrently carrying a minimum of eighteen hours per semester.

A bronze plaque inscribed with name and year of graduation is awarded to the student attaining the highest quality point index in courses of chemistry.

The fraternity is making plans for an award to the student who attains the highest grades and shows promise in some particular field in chemistry within the District of Columbia high schools.

Delta Phi Epsilon was founded to provide for those men students interested in international affairs an opportunity to broaden their appreciation of this field through association with fellow students having similar interests. For this purpose the fraternity sponsors meetings at which speakers prominent in national and international affairs address members and guests on various aspects of international relations.

In choosing new members, the Eta chapter is governed by the interest in international affairs shown by the individual, his scholastic achievement and the rule that a minimum of 45 credit hours must have been completed, of which a minimum of one semester must have been taken at this University. The membership has included majors in foreign affairs, foreign trade, economics, political science, and history.

In addition to the annual fall cocktail party and February Founders' Day banquet in conjunction with Alpha chapter (Georgetown) and the Washington Alumni Association, Eta chapter has pursued a successful professional-social program of its own that has included such outstanding speakers as His Excellency Henri Bonnet, Ambassador of the French Republic.

St. John's, the yellow stone church across from the White House, has long been a landmark. Many of our Presidents have regularly attended services there. It is in this historic building that the Canterbury Club meets on Sunday nights.

Supper is served at 6 P.M., followed by regular meeting at 7. Prominent theologians speak, and movies and slides are shown.

Twice yearly retreats are held in various areas in and around Washington. The most recent was held in Virginia at Holiday House.

The George Washington chapter of the Canterbury Club is affiliated with the national organization which has over 362 branches in colleges and universities throughout the United States. Recently Canterburians held a world-wide conference.

All Episcopalians and members of other faiths are invited to all meetings. The faculty advisor is Prof. Edward Acheson.

The Wesley Foundation serves the Methodist students on campus. Meetings are held every Friday at noon, where lunch is served and a worship service is held.

On December 15th at a Christmas dinner, Dr. Folkemer spoke to the group. The Foundation invites other prominent men to speak throughout the year.

Rev. Edward Lewis and Dr. Yeager are advisors to the Foundation. All interested students are invited to attend the meetings.

In April and November, the Foundation casts aside scholastic cares and retreats to Camp Chopawamsic. These retreats are often held in conjunction with the University of Maryland and other religious groups from George Washington. A central theme is adopted for the retreats and is carried through by prominent clergy speakers. Hikes, square dancing, and lots of rest and good food round out the week's activities.

The Westminster Foundation is the Presbyterian student group at the University. By bringing together Presbyterian students for Bible study and prayer, fellowship and religious education, the Foundation aims at a growth in Christian character and service in the church. Meeting every Tuesday at 1906 H Street, the group conducts a varied program of lectures, discussions and parties. Notable speakers included Mr. E. M. Wright, State Department Advisor on U. N. Affairs, and Dr. Raymond Seeger, Chief of Aeroballistics Research Department, Naval Ordnance Laboratory.

Outstanding events of the year are the spring and fall retreats at Prince William National Forest. These retreats, held in conjunction with the Foundation at the University of Maryland, were led by students from Union Seminary at Richmond, Virginia. The theme for the fall retreat was "Prayer and the Christian Life." The group is active throughout the week; in addition to its Tuesday evening meetings, it participates in the Religious Council and the Student Christian Fellowship to promote religious activities on campus.

The Newman Club brings Roman Catholic students together to deepen their spiritual and enrich their temporal lives through a program of faith, facts and fun. Most of these activities are held at Newman House, where such facilities as television, ping pong, piano, record player and coke bar are available to members. Corporate Communion is made on the first Sunday of each month, usually at the 10:00 A.M. Mass at St. Stephen's, with breakfast afterwards at McKee's.

The calendar for the year is made up early. Between regular business meetings and socials are packed an immense variety of activities. First on the agenda in October is a house cleaning, tea dance for new students and a hayride. November is set aside for initiation proceedings.

A Sinners' Party, a gift wrapping get-together, and a New Year's Eve Party are scheduled for December. In February Newmanites are well ready to Flunk and Forget and begin plans for spring picnics and later swims.

MASONIC CLUB

Some 400 years ago, the Crusaders banded together and drove across the East, fired with a number of religious and political ideas. The results of this great movement are familiar to every student, however casually he may have scanned his Kayser supplement. And it was also at this period that the Masonic Brotherhood came into being. The organization is represented at our University by members of various lodges who have joined together in the Masonic Club.

MARTHA WASHINGTON CLUB

An independent organization open to all University women, the Martha Washington Club started the fall semester with a Get-Acquainted Tea for Freshmen, followed by Balloon, Hallowe'en, roller skating and bowling parties. As a professional fraternity, Theta Tau does not compete with the social fraternities, nor are the membership requirements such that it competes with or serves as an academic honor society. Here at The George Washington University one of the prime functions of Gamma Beta chapter, and also an excellent recommendation for membership, is an active interest in the extra-curricular activities of the School of Engineering. The social activities of the chapter now include various events such as an annual football game and oyster roast, and several informal parties both stag and drag. The highlight of each semester is the initiation banquet and dance. These have proved to be the chapter's best answer to the establishment of a common bond between the various options represented in our membership. Each year the fraternity presents an award to that graduating senior who has, in the opinion of the faculty, contributed the most to the extra-curricular activities of the School of Engineering and to the University as a whole. Membership is by invitation only. Members are chosen from among those outstanding students completing at least their Freshman year.

Treasurer.....James Binckley

The Washington section of the A.S.M.E. is the sponsor of the G.W. student branch and has opened its meetings to student members. Students are also invited to attend the various inspection trips arranged by the parent group. The national organization makes an annual monetary contribution to the student branch dependent upon the number of members, and also provides the student member with eight issues of its publication, MECHANICAL ENGINEERING. In addition to the above, the national group offers awards for various student papers submitted to them. Student members are also invited to attend the national conferences and the regional student conference held annually in this area.

The A.S.M.E. elects two members to the Engineers' Council each year, and since the Engineers' Council has a member on the Student Life Committee, the A.S.M.E. has a voice in the student affairs of both the School of Engineering and the University.

Thus, the A.S.M.E. student branch can offer the new engineering student not only the social benefits of an organization of its type, but also technical benefits that cannot be supplied by non-professional groups in the University.

“COMMAND DECISION”

1950 FOOTBALL

The Colonial Gridmen last season completed the first winning year since 1946, losing 4, winning 5. The team placed fifth in the nation in total offense, thanks largely to Handy Andy Davis' passing. Only two men hold a greater offensive yardage total in football history over Andy's record. Next season he has a good chance of bettering the four-year all-time record. In spite of the loss of eleven outstanding Seniors, next season promises much for the Colonials who have a new schedule which includes powerful Georgia and Kentucky.

In three seasons at G.W., head football coach "Bo" Rowland has had 13 wins and 15 losses, an outstanding record considering the predictions which allowed him only a couple of wins each season. Colonial fans are most appreciative of his wins over Georgetown — our only three victories since 1890 have occurred during "Bo's" three years here. "Bo" has been a head coach for fourteen years, compiling a record of 102 wins and 34 losses while using his specialty, the Snavely-style single wing. From "Bo" Rowland G.W. can confidently expect better teams and better seasons in its future grid schedules.

Virginia 19

Inexperience showed its face in the opening game. Playing its first game without last year's stars, the Buff was confused in taking its second straight beating at the hands of the Cavaliers. However, the 2,000 Colonial Boosters who made the journey via Caravan were given some consolation by the fine playing of Bobby Cilento who, in relieving Andy Davis, completed 10 of 12 passes for 75 yards including 6 in a row. Several times the passing of Davis and Cilento to Butler and Szanyi brought G.W. close to the Virginia goal, but the boys seemed to run out of steam before making the tallies.

Playing the role of underdogs, the Colonials outlasted the hard-charging Keydet team. Davis, Cilento and Jones carried the load for the Buff but found some relief in little Bino Barriera, the 150-lb. fullback, who looked good in his first varsity game. John Schullenbarger accounted for the winning margin but the boys added a safety for good measure. The line is to be commended for weathering the bull-like charges of V.M.I.'s Joe Stump who played a tremendous game. Dave Shiver saved much V.M.I. yardage by his shoestring tackles from the backer-up spot.

West Virginia 14

It took two TD's within two minutes during the final period for the Buff to win this one. With a series of Davis to Butler passes setting up both markers and little Bobby Cilento playing the role of line plunger, the Colonials left the stunned Mountaineers 7 points short. It was during this game that Handy Andy Davis reached the climax of his career. He completed 17 of 31 passes for 246 yards and added 41 more on 10 rushes through the line. Jimmy Kline made several nice runs behind some fine line play.

Handy Andy's quite upset by West Virginia men.

The much-improved Colonials showed their strongest scoring punch in four years against V.P.I.'s Gobblers. Ace tailback Davis was injured in the first quarter after completing 5 of 7 passes for 43 yards. Hustling Bobby Cilento took over and racked up 10 of 16 passes for 111 yards and two TD's. The pass receiving was spectacular with Szanyi holding seven and Butler making two 6-point catches. The Buff also showed their stuff on the ground with Cilento, Tivnan and Baumgartner accounting for most of the 297 yards gained. Feula and Drayer played bang-up line games and Shullenbarger hit for six conversions.

A strong and alert Deacon defense proved too much for the Colonials. The hard-charging Deacon line forced Davis and Cilento to take to the air and then the heads-up secondary made two interceptions which resulted in the winning markers. The Colonial line played a great game and did not allow the Deacs to cross the 30 yard strip via the ground. Continetti, Gutt, England and Cordelli spent much time in the Wake Forest backfield and had it not been for the interceptions, the game might have ended in a deadlock. Tackle Continetti almost tallied after stealing a Deacon pitchout, but his 220 pounds were overhauled by a fleet halfback before he could reach paydirt.

South Carolina 34

The Gamecocks outlasted the Buff in this torrid Homecoming Game which featured a scoring duel between two Southern Conference aces, Davis and Wadiak. Wadiak passed for one and ran for two of the Carolinian scores while Handy Andy passed for all three Buff markers and a total of 297 yards. The first three quarters were nip and tuck, but "Cadillac" Wadiak broke it wide open with a snake-hipped 95-yard dash to open the fourth stanza. In spite of losing the game the Colonials won national acclaim when Tailback Andy Davis ran his three-year total offense record to 3,351 yards which allowed him to pass Army's Glenn Davis and to rank fourth only to Sinkwich, Grange and Harmon.

Maryland 23

Maryland's bench power was too strong for the G.W. "iron-men" once again. Holding the Terps to a one-touchdown margin until the last few seconds, the Colonials then allowed a Terp score and safety which sewed up the game. The first half ended in a 7-7 deadlock but the Buff and Blue controlled the ball all the way. The Terps took a 7-point lead in the third period, which proved enough. A Davis to Szanyi pass gave a spark of hope to the G.W. rooters, but Bo's boys could not make the necessary yardage for the score. Berriera showed his heels on a 35-yard jaunt that gave the Terps a scare. Shullenbarger helped the cause by keeping the Old Liners on their heels with his 40.6 punting average.

Georgetown 6

In a driving rain, the Colonials made it three straight over the Hoyas in what is considered the BIG game. Georgetown will be glad to see the G.W. class of '51 pass on because they have been unable to defeat them in four years. To make matters worse, these three victories represent the only wins for G.W. over Georgetown in 19 tries. The Hoyas took a 6-0 lead in the first quarter on a 63-yard TD play from Mattingly to Thompson, but missed the important conversion. In the second period, Davis hit Szanyi for 17 yards and spotted Jones in the end zone for the tie. Shullenbarger was called in for the extra point attempt and split the uprights as usual to make it 7-6. That ended the scoring, since the muddy field allowed little play in the last half.

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL, 1951

The Frosh were so drastically short of men last season that they couldn't even play a full schedule. Coach Hanken had to play two men, blocking back Huntz and center Korcheck, every minute of every game. Some of the D.C. boys who will undoubtedly play regularly with the varsity next season are Fox, Molan, O'Keife, Vierbucken, Rolman, Zell, James and Neil.

1951 BASKETBALL

Only four men returned this year from the team who went last season to the Southern Conference tourney. These four, Ace Adler, Bud Goglin, Artie Cerra, and Gene Witkin, were responsible for over half of the squad's 1476 points but the team suffered from the substitution of inexperienced Sophomores for defensive stars McNiff, Moffatt, Small and Hoffman. However, the team improved as the season wore on and finished with a record of 12 victories and 12 defeats, beating Georgetown twice and Maryland once for the D. C. area title.

One great consolation is that next season their acknowledged ability, coupled with acquired experience, will doubtless make the Colonials again a top Southern Conference tournament competitor.

WILLIAM J. REINHART

Bill Reinhart has done much to build the Colonial cagers to their high place in basketball circles. He was the first to bring topnotch intersectional teams to Washington. Last year, the first since his return to G.W., Bill coached his team into the Conference tournament. The Colonial cagers had an admirable record last season winning 17 out of 25 games, and in the Conference winning 12 out of 16. Not only is Bill an excellent basketball coach but he is also known widely for his baseball and football coaching. Bill has been head coach for G.W. football, basketball and baseball.

1951 BASEBALL

Coach Reinhart's baseball team came through last season with a second place in the Northern Division of the Southern Conference. Their next season doesn't look so bright in view of the loss of team captain Joe Famulette, who hit over .350, and also Frank Cavallo, Don Druckenmiller and Tony Caruso. Cilento, Tivnan, Ciarrocca and Yednack will star again this year along with some really fine Freshmen, Baumgartner, Fox, Barreira, and Sengstack. All in all it looks like another winning year for the Colonial baseball team.

RIFLE TEAM

The riflemen confidently faced this year's matches, repeating their admirable records of the past years. The team has had two Individual National Champions and has placed three men in the All-American Team. Dick Ballinger took first place in '51 in the Middle Atlantic Division, and was also on the All-American Team. The team itself out of almost 100 major Universities, placed sixth in the nation.

SWIMMING TEAM

Lack of a conscientious drive to stimulate interest and support in the last few years has produced a poor record for the G.W. swimmers. But with the mid-season acquisition of an energetic new coach, Frank Martin, a Colonial himself not long ago, the future undoubtedly holds better records for the team. A spirited publicity drive has already resulted in the addition of several promising names to those of veteran tankmen Lynn George, Frank Burford, Charley Yuill and Howard Stewart.

SAILING TEAM

In the spring the G.W. salts took either first or second in all seven regattas. By virtue of these successes the sailors represented the Middle Atlantic States in the National Intercollegiate Championships at Balboa, California, in June, placing third to Yale and California.

Lacking its best skipper, George Collins, the team this fall concentrated on training new skippers. Lorenz Schrenk and John Dodge placed sixth in the Freshman Championships. At Thanksgiving the salts attended the Midwest Fall Invitational Regatta in zero weather at Chicago. The fall season ended with The Potomac Frostbite Regatta in which the G.W. sailors placed fourth.

INTRAMURALS

In softball last spring the Kappa Sigs nosed out the Theta Delts for the All-University title. The Ramblers next won the track and field titles over PiKA to cinch the All-U Intramural trophy just ahead of Sigma Chi. The Theta Delts took the Interfraternity title.

Sigma Chi claimed the Interfraternity and All-U football crown this fall by downing SAE and the Ramblers. Kappa Sigma took an easy first in the swimming meet, while Theta Tau, professional engineering fraternity, won Intramural bowling.

Joe Krupa, director of intramural sports, built G.W.'s intramural program into one of the finest in the country. He is always quick to divert much of the credit to his two student assistants, Angelo Iandolo and Sam Portwine. From the intramural program, several extramural sports have originated such as wrestling, track and football. The program is constantly being extended to include sports in which an interest is indicated.

WOMEN'S SPORTS

Women's Sports and Activities classes, under the Women's Physical Education Department, constitute a large part of every Freshman or Sophomore girl's life here on campus. Under the excellent supervision of Miss Ruth Atwell, this department offers not only a chance for competition among the girls here but, with the help of the Women's Recreation Association, also gives an opportunity for inter-college competitions. In cooperation with WRA the University has served as host (or hostess) to many visiting teams and has provided a means for G.W. girls to play other schools. Therefore, if a girl is interested, she may find many opportunities for broadening her knowledge of women's sports.

A.F.C.W. SPORTS DAY

On Saturday, November 15, the Physical Education Department for Women here at G.W. became the hostess for Goucher College, Maryland University, Hood College, American University, Frostburg State Teachers College and Wilson Teachers College to present a Sports Day in conjunction with the Athletic Federation of College Women. There was lunch at Strong Hall, the girls' dormitory, which was followed by the competitions in hockey, golf, tennis and archery.

It was a fine day for such an event — clear, warm and sunny — except that it was a little windy for archery. However, everyone was having a wonderful time, and when darkness fell a lot of tired and happy girls wound their way home.

George Washington did very well in some of the competitions, not so well in others. But all in all everyone was satisfied with the outcome. The scores were as follows:

ARCHERY

1. George Washington 741
  2. Wilson Teachers College 599
  3. Maryland University 467

WRA AWARDS TEA

On December 11 the Women's Recreation Association at this University held an Awards Tea. All the women students were invited and many people were present to find out who was to be presented with the golf and tennis cups.

Lillian Skufca, who placed second in golf in the A.F.C.W. Sports Day event, won the Women's Golf Tournament Cup. Sis Woolwine, who also played in the A.F.C.W. tennis matches, won the Women's Tennis Cup for the second time.

That's a long stretch, Ginny.

Principally featured in the separate seasons are sports particularly adaptable to that season. Fall is usually set aside for such sports as tennis, archery, swimming, hockey, golf and other activities which lend themselves to the change from summer heat to cooler, more crisp weather. The winter season brings on the indoor sports: badminton, basketball, bowling, skating, dance and the like. Nobody likes those cold winter winds and the gym becomes very appealing. Spring, of course, is quite the reverse of the fall weather conditions, so many of the courses are repeated, but canoeing, swimming, sailing and softball seem to hold sway as springtime favorites.

Getting out and playing in that wonderful autumn weather is fun. Playing tennis on the cold, windy courts at Hains Point wasn't really as bad as it seemed, was it? Hockey and golf suffered most, apparently from the thick covering of autumn leaves, but they do rustle so nicely! The winter season always has more than its share of colds and the I-don't-want-to-get-out-of-bed feelings. But a gal sure feels better after an hour or so of good relaxation such as badminton. And skating of any kind seems to fit right into the mood of things. Really, it is a very happy time. But, spring (ah, spring!) has the most captivating attractions of all. The warming weather, that cooped-up feeling, and the approaching end of the term are sure-fire stimulants which seem to make spring the most fun of all.

Higher, please, girls!

With the beginning of each new class period, one always sees girls scurrying about with their coats wrapped tightly 'round (the ever-revealing sign of an approaching gym class), tennis shoes, and a worried expression. That worried expression comes from having only a nodding acquaintance with their new schedule and not being quite sure when they should have been at Building H to meet the bus that takes them to class. There is no greater feeling of relief than when you come around the corner of 20th and G Streets to find the bus waiting as if just for you (and it usually is, too!). But, if it's not there: "Who has taxi money?" The bus ride also has a confusing aspect. Have you ever heard an instructor trying to call roll aboard a bus full of chattering girls? It's really an experience. It must appear to the instructor that the girls are deliberately pitching their entire vocal strength against her one lone voice. No wonder she is hoarse by the time the bus arrives at the playing field. And then there is the ever-lasting problem of swimming class. It seems as if there is never a solution for wet hair on a Friday afternoon, or any other day for that matter. This is really just joking because these are some of the little things that help bring back the pleasant memories of gym class. And they were pleasant, too, when you look back on them. All the classes were loads of fun after you once got there. It was getting there that presented the largest hurdle!

Looking for something, Myrta!

You're peeking, Joe!

Up, up, and away . . .

Fight, Freshmen, fight — those Juniors can't always win!

Watch that birdie!

Ready — Hey, Hep!!

CHEERLEADERS

Cheering at the football games in the blazing sun or pouring rain, and at most of the basketball games, the Cheerleaders have led the student body in support of victorious Colonial teams. To foster school spirit and support University athletics are the purposes of the Cheerleaders. At football and basketball games, pep rallies, and various other campus activities they attempt to achieve this goal, fanning the spark of ever-growing spirit. And there you have the ingredients for true school spirit: an energetic cheering squad leading an enthusiastic student body in support of fighting Buff and Blue teams.

SIGMA CHI

Have you ever seen anyone lovelier than the Sweetheart of Sigma Chi? Marie DiMaio was crowned as the highlight of the evening on December 9th at the Sigma Chi's Sweetheart Dance at the Shoreham Hotel. Later, in the spring, were the popular and bizarre Greenwich Village Ball and the Spring Formal.

Athletes, too, the Sigma Chi's became the Intramural and Inter-Fraternity football champions. In other sports, Bob Parkinson of the varsity basketball team, Eddie Hughes, of the varsity baseball team, and Ronnie Marra and John Holup, of the Freshmen basketball team, all add to the long list of athletes in Sigma Chi.

In scholarship they shine as first in the Eastern Province of Sigma Chi, and second on G.W.'s campus. Chet McCall won the 1950 Balfour Award as the outstanding Sigma Chi undergraduate in the Eastern Province.

Among the "wheels" on campus are Jake Bayer, Tom Dougherty and Tom Israel, all of whom made Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. Jake Bayer was Advocate on the Student Council, Buz Buzzell and Bob Evans held editorial positions on the CHERRY TREE, while Court Randall was President of the Christian Science Organization on campus, and Tom Israel was Chairman of the Elections Committee on the Student Council.

KAPPA SIGMA

Kappa Sigma was founded on December 10, 1869, at the University of Virginia and the Alpha Eta chapter was established on The George Washington University campus on February 22, 1892.

Last spring, in Interfraternitly athletics, Kappa Sigma was champion in golf, tennis, and All-University Champion in softball.

Rick Pentecost did a terrific job as Freshmen Director on the Student Council.

The two big functions of the Fall Term were the "La Vie Parisienne" costume brawl and the Black-and-White Formal which was held shortly before Christmas vacation.

The "Reunion of the 3.2 Regiment" was held during the Winter Term. This was a costume affair, with any and all military uniform or out-of-uniform possible. The 3.2 Regiment has encompassed all time, every military organization and every battle or close-order drill.

The number one social function of the entire year was the annual Stardust Ball, in the spring. The Ball was formal, and was both a dinner and a dance. On this occasion the Kappa Sigmas crowned their Stardust Queen.

KAPPA ALPHA

Kappa Alpha moved into its new house across from the Wardman Park Hotel in June. All the brothers immediately started on the work of preparing the house for the Fall Rush season. Our chapter room in the basement, often referred to as a bar, was completed just in time. Our work proved worthwhile for it gave us one of the most attractive and modern fraternity houses on campus.

Sorority exchanges were enjoyed throughout the fall and the time passed quickly until the Christmas holidays brought more parties. During the vacation, we had a gala Christmas Formal and feted the pledges at a Formal for them. In January the pledges sponsored the traditional Tacky Ball with its usual melee of mad costumes.

At last in May came the long-awaited Dixie Ball. Alpha Nu of Kappa Alpha seceded from the Federal Union. The Stars and Bars were raised over the chapter house and the annual Old-South weekend got under way. The annual barbecue and a visit to Arlington, Lee's home, started the Confederate weekend which reached its climax with a swirl of hoops and laces and gallants in Southern uniform at the Dixie Ball.

THETA DELTA CHI

Theta Delta Chi was founded at Union College, Schenectady, New York, in 1847. The prime aim of the fraternity is to foster friendship among men; in this we believe we have succeeded well. The comparative smallness of Theta Delta Chi has made for a tightly knit organization. The aspirations of our members range from politics and teaching to foreign service and pharmacy.

Our outstanding members include Don Bostwick, Secretary of Gate and Key; Joe Barish, Publicity Chairman of Colonial Boosters and HATCHET feature writer; Sam Portwine, IFC Athletic Director; and Bill Szanyi, John Sestokas and Frank Continetti, varsity football men.

We also encouraged better scholarship by giving an award to the active member maintaining the highest average for the year. This award is the J. B. Martin Memorial Scholarship Award in memory of the only Chi Deuteron brother to lose his life in World War II.

In Interfraternity football, Theta Delta Chi holds a unique record — two successive years of being unbeaten, untied, and unscored upon. This year the Theta Delt house was the scene of parties, exchange dances, stag smokers and many dances, among which the Bowery Ball and the Sweetheart Dance were outstanding events.

PHI SIGMA KAPPA

The purpose of our organization is to promote brotherhood, stimulate scholarship, and develop character. The outstanding events on our social calendar are a joint Thanksgiving Day dance with the Phi Sigs of American, George Washington and Maryland Universities. One memorable event was our annual Farmer's Day Ball which climaxed our rushing season. Lovely and vivacious Patti McNally reigned supreme in the hearts of Phi Sigs through 1950 as our Moonlight Girl. Our men are taking part in several campus activities and organizations: Hal Hart is President of Pi Delta Epsilon, honorary journalistic fraternity, and is also in ODK; Bill Leikari is getting a good start as copy editor on the HATCHET staff; Ed Howar is current President of the Interfraternity Council; Dick Riecken is President of Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, as well as Activities Director on the Student Council. In addition to these men, we are well represented in the University Glee Club and Band, and the foreign service, chemical, pharmaceutical and engineering fraternities. Bob Link and Oscar Will are in Gate and Key and Ken Beach and Georg Maisel were recently tapped for that Interfraternity society.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON

With an active chapter of forty and a pledge class of fifteen taking part in almost every phase of University life, Sigma Alpha Epsilon added the ninety-second year to the history of its Washington City Rho chapter of G.W.

Seven Sig Alphas were members of the varsity football squad. SAE was also represented on the HATCHET, with Chauncey Dodds as Business Manager; in campus politics with Warren Hull as Student Council Publicity Director; in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities by Brothers Cordelli and Graves; and on the cheerleading squad where Lou Alexiou again served as "Martha."

SAE was also active in the many social phases of its chapter life. The two highlights of the Sig Alph season were the Bal Boheme in January and the Spring Formal in April. As usual, the Bal saw a weird and varied turnout of costumed brothers. Many exchanges and parties were held in the chapter house, which was refurnished for the 1950-'51 social campaign. The chapter celebrated the first anniversary of the pledging of Gindratt, the SAE mascot. The high point of the chapter's alumni activities came on March ninth when the annual Founder's Day Dinner was held at the National Press Club.

PHI ALPHA

The only national fraternity founded on G.W.'s campus, Phi Alpha has been at the University since 1914. The fraternity has always stressed a fine blending of academic, social and extracurricular activities.

In line with these ideals, Phi Alpha has maintained the highest fraternity scholastic average for the past three semesters. For this outstanding achievement it won the scholastic award each of the semesters.

Known for its fine hospitality, Phi Alpha, as always, has had a busy season. The year has included three formal dances, a dinner dance and numerous weekend parties varying from the quiet to the hilarious.

Extracurricular activities also attract the efforts of the Phi Alpha's. In sports seven members of the varsity basketball team were Phi Alpha's, as was Bob Gutt, a member of last year's varsity football team. The fraternity was also well represented on the Freshmen basketball team. Phi Alpha also takes an active part in Interfraternity athletics and activities.

In politics, Gene Witkin is on the Student Council in the position of Member-at-Large. Last year "Bo" Kirsch was the Advocate of the Student Council.

In dramatics Joe Elman played a leading role in the G.W. Players production, "Street Scene."

The White Star shown brightly on campus this year. Starting off with a "bang," Sigma Nu won first place in the Homecoming Float Parade for the third consecutive year. Varsity sports also benefited with Tad Lindner and Hank Burton represented on the golf team, Paul Andes and Hank boosting the swimming events and Bud Lauscher giving his all for the tennis team.

On the serious side of G.W. activities, Sigma Nu again showed its fine caliber. Tad Lindner proved his capabilities as Student Council President. Robert Richardson, Vice President of the Student Bar Association, and Aubrey Parrot, IFC Vice President, also showed their fine executive abilities. William Clark was President of the honorary society, Gate and Key; other Gate and Key members were Richard Randall, Richard Mathias, and Tad Lindner. On the academic side, Dave Fletcher represented Sigma Nu in the engineering honorary society, Sigma Tau.

Social highlights of the year included several visits by Sandra Stahl, the current Miss Washington; the Christmas Formal at the Wardman Park Hotel; the Roaring Twenties Party later in the spring; and the Frontier Ball in April.

TAU KAPPA EPSILON

Tau Kappa Epsilon is a social fraternity, which was founded nationally in 1899 and has grown to its present size of 83 chapters spread throughout the country with colonies in Canada.

The Alpha Pi chapter has acquired a new house, and for the beginning of the first semester has spent most of its time redecorating. One of our projects was the completion of our pine-panelled lounge complete with paintings by Jack Lewis.

Teke will have its annual Casino Party early in 1951 when the chapter house becomes a complete nightclub with all the trimmings except a bouncer. Other annual events scheduled are the Pajama Party, Christmas Tree Lighting Events, Founder's Day Banquet, Pledge Formal at the Washington Golf and Country Club, Spring Ball, "Roaring Twenties" Party, and "Gay Nineties" Party.

Tau Kappa Epsilon is working for greater Interfraternity cooperation, and much greater support by the organizations of school functions. The new Sophomore President, Teke Ray Malloy will be working with these goals in mind.

The Teke House has no locks and no keys for its doors. Our doors are always open to welcome guests from any of the many organizations on campus.

Once again athletics, studies, student activities and social functions have made this year a rapid one for the brothers of Pi Kappa Alpha.

Andy Davis and Jim Kline starred for G.W. on the varsity football field, and Sophomores Ken Samuelson, Mike Sileo, Jim England and John Wojtowicz showed exceptional promise. Bud Goglin and Jim England were prominent on the varsity basketball court.

Among the outstanding PIKA's in campus activities were "Jinx" Smith, who was elected to ODK, and Don Knight, Homecoming Chairman, who produced the first financially successful Homecoming in many a year. Ronald Woody was elected Freshmen President.

The major social events of the PIKA year were the Shipwreck Ball, held this year in February, and the spring formal, the Dream Girl Dance. There were the usual exchange dances and the continuation of the Annual Punch Bowl in which PIKA's mighty football eleven went down to defeat at the hands of petite but powerful KKG sorority.

All in all, PIKA's year successfully fulfilled its purposes, that of inculcating high ideals of American manhood in its members, and of inspiring devotion to alma mater.

The G.W. chapter of the Acacia Fraternity was chartered in 1923. The fraternity is composed of a group of college men who endeavor to actively support the University and to make their college life a more pleasant experience by the fellowship afforded by fraternity living. This year the Acacians acquired a new house nearer the University and spent the fall semester getting it ready for occupancy.

A wide variety of social, academic and athletic activities kept the Acacians busy throughout the year. The social events were climaxed by the annual Christmas Formal and the spring "Go to Hell" Party. There were also numerous exchange functions with other campus Greeks and the Saturday Evening Dances. In May, the chapter held its annual Founder's Day celebration. Although Acacia is a social fraternity, it has always put the emphasis on the scholastic achievements of its members also.

The Acacia Fraternity is a charter member of the National Interfraternity Conference. Members chose the Greek name in preference to the characteristic Greek letters to avoid confusion and because of the special significance of the name to every member of Acacia.

ALPHA EPSILON PI

The Kappa Deuteron chapter sponsored a series of weekly get-togethers for all active and inactive members, as well as one large affair each month. Outstanding among these were the pledge parties held in December and January, and the Barn Dance in November.

In the fall we played our annual game with the chapter at the University of Maryland for the cherished "Herring Bucket," which we have not relinquished since the beginning of the series. Other activities were participation in the Homecoming Mummers Parade and the continuation of our yearly charitable project. Our social program was much broader this year, especially with the addition of another formal to supplement our annual Anniversary Dance in April.

The brothers of AEPi have been extremely active on campus this year with Bob Lesser as Program Director of the Student Council, Jack Pell and Murray Halperin in Gate and Key, and Gerry Golin on the HATCHET staff.

We were very strongly behind Dr. Marvin in his desire to build up school spirit, and Alpha Epsilon Pi was right up on top with the other campus fraternities in its endeavors to make life at George Washington ideal for all its students.

DELTA TAU DELTA

One of the highlights of the past year was the annual Spring Formal, held at the Terrace Room of the National Airport. The month of December found everyone enjoying the Costume Ball given at the Cameron Club. This, too, is becoming a yearly affair for Delta Tau Delta. Not to be overlooked was the Alumni Fall Formal at which both actives and alumni shared the spotlight during an evening of entertainment at the Washington Town and Country Club.

In February, Gamma Eta held its gala celebration for its "100th" initiation. A three-day weekend of festivities made this event memorable for both initiates and actives and alumnae as well.

Not to be overlooked was the fine work of our powerful swimming team which finished right at the top of the heap. Inaugurated this year as a token of fine sportsmanship was the Henry Lipscomb Trophy — a token to represent a yearly football game to be played between the Maryland Chapter of Delta Tau Delta and Gamma Eta.

Charles Saxe and John Foltz are in Delta Phi Epsilon; Conrad Hoffman is Associate Business Manager of the CHERRY TREE; Fred Warder is on the HATCHET staff; and John Toomey is with the G.W. Players.

The fall social season of Sigma Phi Epsilon was crowded with Sunday afternoon tea dances, parties and dances at the house. Highlights of the year were the Hallowe'en, Christmas and New Year's Eve parties. In November, Founder's Day was celebrated with a dinner and dance in conjunction with our chapter at the University of Maryland.

In line with our improvement in scholarship this year, we again exerted all our efforts toward further scholastic achievement this year.

In the spring we celebrated the founding of our local chapter with a dinner-dance, and we held our Heart Ball in March, the highlight of our social activities for the year.

This year Tau Epsilon Phi is celebrating "Forty Years of Brotherhood." The fraternity was founded at Columbia University on October 19, 1910, and through the years it has grown to thirty-nine active chapters with a total membership of close to 10,000 men.

Tau Theta chapter at G.W. holds as its keystone the principles of Fraternalism, Cooperation, and Friendliness. "Our greatest aspiration is to live up to these principles upon which our fraternity was founded four decades ago."

At the Shoreham in February, Tau Theta chapter holds its annual Regional Jubilee with Maryland. The brothers also held a Founder's Day Party and the spring "Helmet and Shield" formal.

PI BETA PHI

Spring of 1950 was a happy one for the Pi Phi's. After winning third place in the Panhel Sing, they were given first honors in both the Active and Pledge Intersorority Scholastic Competition.

May Day . . . Jeanne Cleary chosen as the most outstanding Sophomore woman, and Janet Wildman tapped for Mortar Board Historian. The Pi Phi's were thrilled to learn at the Celebrity Capers that Dee Dietrich would be the 1950 CHERRY TREE Queen.

A wonderful pledge class and third place in the Homecoming Float Parade boosted spirits as the 1950 fall semester started. The chapter honored its pledges at the Thanksgiving Eve Pledge Formal, held at the Washington Club. Social times throughout the year included exchanges, fraternity open house, coffee hours, a Mother-Father Tea, and the lovely Christmas Party for underprivileged children.

All three chapter seniors were included in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. They were Ruth Wilson of the HATCHET Editorial Board; Janet Wildman, CHERRY TREE Managing Editor and Phi Beta Kappa member; and Tot Weld, Pi Phi President and member of Delphi.

Eugenia Brandenburger was elected Sophomore Class Treasurer and Tassels President. Carol Mercer, Ellen MacEwen, Anne Peterson and Bunny Bruner were also chosen for Tassels.

CHI OMEGA

Phi Alpha Chapter began the new semester by moving into our new rooms in Sorority Hall, so conveniently near the Student Union. The Pledge Formal was held on the first of December at the beautiful Washington Club to introduce officially our nineteen new pledges to the George Washington campus. Then just eight days later our pledges walked away with that beautiful first place cup for their terrific and timely "Why Red" skit in the Goat Show — well done, gals!

We held a Coffee Hour once a month in the sorority rooms for fraternities beginning with Kappa Sigma, our brother fraternity. As part of our social service, Chi Omega had several members honored for their work in activities and for their scholarship. Chosen by Tassels, the Sophomore women's honorary, were Dana Haas, Penny McGraff, Nancy McCoach and Dottie Nelson. Nancy McCoach was also elected Sophomore Vice President, Sis Woolwine became President of Strong Hall, Louanne Hoffheins became a full-fledged cheerleader and was elected as President of the Intersorority Athletic Board. Lynn Clark had the lead in the first play of the year "Street Scene." On the beauty queen side of campus life, Dionne Dalton was elected as Kappa Alpha Rose at the annual Dixie Ball.

SIGMA KAPPA

Sigma Kappa has had a truly successful year. The Pledge Formal, the first big event of the fall semester, was held at the Carlton Hotel. The Banquet Room was decorated with an immense floral archway and with suspended balloons, which, when broken, showered hundreds of small balloons on the dancers. The pledges soon found their evening gowns exchanged for leotards and burnt cork, and were making lots of noise on the stage of Lisner Auditorium. It was all worth it, though, for the Goat Show records show Sigma Kappa in fourth place.

Three of the sisters made Who's Who in 1950 — Diane Farrell, Marion Glickman and Mary Ann Sodd.

Marion Glickman was also elected to Phi Beta Kappa, while Dianne Farrell was Mortar Board Treasurer and President of WRA. Frances Chaconas and Amy Schaum were Tassels members, and Ramona Samples was President of the Religious Council. Jane Pendell was finalist in the G.W. Homecoming and Texas Aggie Queen contests.

Throughout the year Sigma Kappas have frolicked at exchange picnics, teas, and coffee hours. One and all had an especially grand time at the Panhel Sing, where they exercised their talents with a wonderful rendition of "Cindy."

DELTA ZETA

The purpose of Delta Zeta is the promotion of good scholarship, the attainment of true friendship, furtherance of social activities and encouragement of campus activities. Delta Zeta placed second in Inter-sorority scholarship for the past spring semester.

November ninth was the Pledge Formal held in the lovely Burgundy Room of the Wardman Park Hotel. Each pledge was presented a wristlet of Kilarney Roses, the Delta Zeta flower, by Robert Burke, Pi Kappa Alpha, the Dream Man of Delta Zeta. An Open House on October 28th began the exchanges with fraternities. A visit the first part of December from our National Executive Secretary, Miss Irene C.

Boughten, was climaxed by a tea given in her honor. A tea for Mothers and Fathers of the chapter members was also on the social calendar. During the preceding summer, Ocean City, redecoration of the music room, a rummage sale, and a Moonlight Cruise kept the DZ's busy.

Ruth Dunlap was chosen for Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities for her outstanding work in Mortar Board, and as President of Big Sis. Ann Dunnington made Phi Beta Kappa, and Sheila Campbell was Advertising Manager of the HATCHET and also was on the Homecoming Committee.

ALPHA DELTA PI

Alpha Delta Pi is well under way toward having a big and successful centennial year. After winning first place in the scholarship standings among the sororities on campus for the spring semester's work, the ADPi's kept things rolling at top pace by pledging nineteen girls in the fall.

Distinguishing themselves in campus activities and honoraries this year have been Maxine Sowards and Lee Harrison, both of whom were chosen for Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Listed among this year's projects is a Christmas party for the children in a nearby grammar school. This event is always as much fun for the ADPi's as it is for the children. Also, the sorority will continue to give an award to the outstanding Junior woman on campus.

In keeping with a season packed with fun as well as studies, the ADPi's held a highly successful Pledge Formal at the Carlton Hotel. Exchanges, a Spring Formal in March, and the Founder's Day Banquet on May 15 add to their crowded social schedule. This last celebration will be especially important this year as Alpha Delta Pi, the oldest secret society for college women, is marking its one hundredth anniversary!

A busy year for the KD's started as soon as G.W. reopened its doors for the fall semester. A gay fraternity Open House on November 5th, and then many exchanges made the books bearable. Also in that "to make life fun" category came the Pledge Formal at the Dupont Plaza Hotel, plus a cocktail party before the dance and a breakfast afterwards. Through the rest of the year were the Mother-Father Tea, a Christmas Party for underprivileged children, and in the spring a White Rose Formal with KD's from Maryland and American Universities.

One of our projects this year was the sale of KD Christmas seals for the Children's Hospital, Richmond, Virginia.

Activities are important in a KD's campus life, too. Frances Newton is on the HATCHET staff, and in the University Players; Ginnye Parrott is Junior Class Secretary, in WRA, and also on the HATCHET; Lucille Ovenden is the Social Chairman of Panhell, Carol Horsley was chosen for Tassels, Ann Waldstein is Corresponding Secretary of WRA, and Rose Arnos is Publicity Chairman of Delphi, Secretary-Treasurer of the Intersorority Athletic Board, and Chairman of the Complaint and Suggestion Committee of the Student Union.

PHI SIGMA SIGMA

The purpose of Phi Sigma Sigma is to promote leadership and character in its members, and to help them to lead a life of usefulness and service to others. Our National project is the Rheumatic Fever Fund, and this year a "Youth Has A Heart Fair" was held to help raise money for the project.

Activities on campus are well represented in Phi Sigma Sigma. Estelle Stern is on the HATCHET staff, Madelyn Weinman is very active in Hillel, and Marion Bender, Betty Silverman and Betsy Goldsmith were tapped for Tassels. We are especially proud of our pledge class, which took 2nd prize in the Goat Show for their skit on "Why George Couldn't Make an Honest Dollar."

On the social side, there is much activity: the Founder's Day Dinner of December 9th, the Open House of December 10th, the highly-successful fair for our National Rheumatic Fever project in February, and the Rose Ball with Phi Alpha in March.

The gold key to the outstanding member this year went to Nina Segal.

ZETA TAU ALPHA

Zeta Tau Alpha was founded at Longwood College, Farmville, Virginia, on October 15, 1898, "to intensify friendship, to promote happiness among its members and in every way create such sentiments, to perform such deeds and to mold such opinions as will conduce to building up of a nobler and purer womanhood in the world."

The Zetas started off the school year by having picnics and parties after all the football games. At Christmas time, the active chapter and the alumnae chapter had a combined party, at which time they exchanged gifts. Several parties were held during the Christmas holidays at homes of some of the members. Teas, dances and exchange parties were held throughout the year.

ZTA's have had several projects this year. At Thanksgiving time, a party was given for the children of one of the wards at Children's Hospital. Zetas again gave several large boxes of toys to Bill Herson's Doll House at Christmas time. Members have given blood to the Red Cross Donor Service several times during the year.

Following a year of fun, service and friendship, the Zetas spent a wonderful week at Ocean City.

KAPPA KAPPA GAMMA

Homecoming was gayer than ever this year for Kappa Kappa Gamma, with our own Barbara Gallagher reigning as Queen, and our soap box parade taking second place in the Homecoming Mummer's Parade.

Sixteen wonderful pledges were the stars of the annual Pledge Formal at Indian Springs Country Club. These same gals disguised as "Whyse Bunnies" did us proud by copping third place in the Panhel Goat Show the following week.

Marilyn Sandwick took her place as President of Panhellenic Council. Barbara Gallagher was chosen for Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities for her outstanding work in activities on campus. Betty Russell and Pat Moore outdid themselves as cheerleaders at all of the games.

Books and studies were often shelved on Sunday afternoons in favor of the many enjoyable exchange dances and, of course, the annual Punch Bowl football game with Pi Kappa Alpha.

The purpose of Kappa Kappa Gamma is to guide its members in social and fraternal activities on campus and to aid them in maintaining high scholarship and sorority ideals.

DELTA GAMMA

Anchors away, and another successful year for the crew of the good ship Delta Gamma. Weighing anchor at an open house for fraternity pledges, the nautical lasses sailed on through exchange dances, coffee hours, an alumnae tea and, best of all, a dinner and weekend house party given by members of the Alumnae Advisory Board. December's choppy waters were calmed by the presentation of pledges in the Oak Lounge of the Roger Smith Hotel, and the traditional Christmas Party for the orphans of St. James.

DG's have been outstandingly active this past year. Sally Bruton was tapped for Tassels, and Joan Haag was elected to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities and Sigma Alpha Eta, as well as serving as Panhel Veep and Treasurer of Delphi. In the Inter-sorority competition, DG's took firsts in bridge and swimming and seconds in volleyball and bowling. Jane Pyle won the cup for highest scholastic average among all sorority women.

The year was climaxed by the Founder's Day Banquet and the biennial province convention attended by all members of the chapter. After months of voyaging the weary sailors headed for a week at Ocean City and returned ready to set sail again for another glorious year.

Why how do you do?

KAPPA ALPHA THETA

Kappa Alpha Theta started off the school year with a successful open house for all university students. Next in the busy whirl of social life was our pledge formal held at Normandy Farms. Exchange dances and coffee hours with fraternities and progressive dinners with sororities were held throughout the year, and during the Christmas season a pledge-active party was enjoyed by all.

Barbara Benner, Secretary of Panhellenic Council, and Helen Biren, Vice President of the Freshmen Class, are only two of Theta's members who have distinguished themselves in campus activities this year. Anne Shepherd Noyes was tapped for Mortar Board and Phi Beta Kappa. President Nancy Cochran was installed as Secretary of Delphi. Anne Noyes and Ann Maupin made Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, and Pat McNally was the Phi Sigma Kappa Moonlight Queen, besides being a finalist for Homecoming Queen. Last spring, Lynn Mitchell, another Theta beauty, was chosen May Queen.

This year a Kappa Alpha Theta Mother's Club was founded.

Gamma Kappa chapter distinguished itself in sports by winning the Intersorority Athletic Council volleyball tournament, and in art by Peggy Seiler's winning the Goat Show poster contest.
